Plans For Transition

DELHI, Nov. 30 (API)—It is learnt that, Finance Member's recent tour of the provinces with the provincial governments, a technique of provincial schemes for the transition period has

The object is to enable the provinces to go ahead immediately, ending the finalisation of their five-year plans and the formulation of a co-ordinated master plan for the whole of India which will necessarily take some time, with their schemes, self-financing and otherwise, and selected from their five-year plans, with the main object of ensuring a high employment level during the transition period.

This selective method of planning and execution for the immediate transition period will be in harmony, it is considered, with the final planning for the long period since the fundamental objective of both would be the same, viz. raising the standard of life of the people and providing them with widening scope for remunerative employment. It is stated that such method has become necessary in view of the urgent need to tackle the problem of general unemployment that is likely to arise as a result of demobilisation.

Question Of Employment

As regards development, there is such a tremendous leeway to be made in various directions in respect of fullscale economic exploitation of the country, in the light of its requirements and possibilities, that it is considered that this immediate launching of selective schemes of development would be conducive to the realisation of
